OFF SIDE

Even the best teams slip up occasionally and are "off side". From a few of our seniors we can get an idea of what this team does in its "off" moments.

If Fay Akins' teachers have often wondered at her absence, the answer is the University which occupies most of her time. Edwin Miles claims to study (he wouldn't say what) in his spare moments. Betty Iglehart may be found any afternoon at Forbes listening to the latest boogie woogie. Kyle Elliott is among the more energetic of our team—his job at the Y. M. C. A. keeps him well occupied. A chief star of girls' basketball is Barbara Minter, and at any afternoon game Marion Ponder, as referee, may be heard calling—"MINTER, two points" every minute.

Anything that makes life more exciting appeals to "Bogie" McGill, who spends his time enjoying life to its fullest degree. If you should find Marion Freeman looking tired and dejected, it is probably because she as club treasurer has had a hard time balancing the budget. Gordy Germany likes the night life of the town and enjoys "swinging out" at the Pickwick to the music of the Auburn Knights. When passing by a park near Five Points, if you see a six-footer who seems out of place playing football with some younger boys, it will just be "Stumpy" Watson, physical director of that branch of the Y. M. C. A.

There are many "off sides" in football games that go by unnoticed, and so it is with seniors. Not all of them could be detected by your unobservant reporter,

Mary Porter (Impy) Shook.

Between the Halves

The first half of the game is over. Here we sit in the grandstand of life awaiting the last half. Will it hold college, business, war—what?

As with all games, no one knows the outcome until the final score.

Now between halves we find ourselves watching the parade of events that have marched before us while we sat here in the high school section.

Far back, just coming on the field, we see a big event—Mr. Stough's following Mr. Going as "Head Coach" at Phillips. Next we notice our first campaign speeches in auditorium which were so different from anything that we had encountered before. Along with these comes the thought of all the times we laughed at the clownings of George Harper and John A. Reynolds. We remember the fiery eloquence of Herbert Kieswetter, which thrilled us so. Next comes the pep squad which made us await the next football game with much eagerness to see their new performance. Next we hear that song which our own Mrs. Wulffaert wrote, "We Love America" and, last in this line, the mighty mite, Roy Johnson.

Coming closer we find that Phillips won the City Basketball Championship and along at the same time appears the music festival cup. Weren't we proud! Next comes the change to a commission government at Phillips, and soon after, the senior play in which we were amused by Walter Bibby. Next, Skidmore Logan was elected the most valuable player. Well he deserved it.

Just in front of the parade of past events we notice the Phillips girls knitting for the British War Relief. A pall of sorrow covers the next event—the death of Miss Chase. Next comes "As You Like It", which was presented after school in our auditorium by Shakespearean actors.

December 7, 1941—A date which has altered many of our plans and may change our entire lives—dominates the approaching group. Then December 8, when we all assembled in both auditoriums to listen to the President's Declaration of War. Just going off the field we notice air raid wardens, evidence of Phillips' preparedness.

Wallace Cohen follows, with his stirring oratorical power which took him high in the oratorical contest. Next come the impressive Thanksgiving and Christmas Programs presented by our speech choir and glee clubs. What is that I see at the end of the field? A large groom, a small bride; why, it's Coach Walker and Mrs. Walker, nee Flautt!

So ends the parade of events. Soon the team will take the field for the last half in the great game of life. May each player acquit himself well, even though it may not be granted to him to carry the ball over for the winning touchdown.

—Dorothy Tyrrell.

D O W N S

Since the whistle is about to blow ending the fourth and final quarter, we, the undersigned players on the winning team, do pass these breaks or penalties, which ever they may be deemed by the referee, on to an up-and-coming second string. These gifts are to be guarded by those upon whom they are bestowed until their final score is made. The "toss-ups" are as follows:

Mary Jo Chambers bestows her beautiful soprano voice upon Jack Crowe.

David Newman wills his rank in R. O. T. C. to James Smith.

Mary Anne Atkinson hands her red locks down to Alto Townsend and Billy Satterwhite, as we think red hair will be becoming to them for a change.

Jane Harper consigns her admiration of the Boys' Glee Club to Jean McCarty.

Bill Wall endows Jeanette Estes with his ability to sell War Stamps and shortchange people.

Margaret Moore bequeaths her task of checking the roll in study hall to Laura Acton.

Frank Chappelle bestows his ability to "brown-nose" to anybody eager to graduate in four years.

David Staff donates priority on his saddle shoes and plaid shoe strings to Jean Musgrove.

"Toady" Smith leaves her brain child, Junior, and his taking ways to anybody who has the patience to get him out of trouble.

Robert Linn desires that his poetic genius be given to Mack Allison.

Dorothy Tyrrell consigns her pigtails to "Baby Sister" Norris.

Carney Dobbs takes great pleasure in bestowing his various and sundry club pins upon the girl of the moment.

Louise Harrison hands her bright red sweater down to Betty Carol Logan.

Kyle Elliott wills his photogenic qualities to John Lanier.

Evelyn Hood gives priority on her front seats in all her classes to Barbara McAdory.

Billy Drennen bequeaths his blue tie with the puppy dogs on it to anybody in Miss Gatchell's history class who forgets to wear one.

June Frost desires that all the knowledge she has learned in the last four years be given to Evelyn Campbell.

John Carden leaves his ability to win friends and influence teachers to Nanette Wood.

Jack Keith gives his gift of gab to Doris Lovett.

Elizabeth Hedgecoth bestows three rubber bands and one aluminum hair curler upon Loretta Graves.

Malcolm Tanner wills his effervescent personality to Walter Byars.

Margaret Adams consigns her collection of bracelets to Gloria Goodall.

"Stumpy" Watson leaves his No. 10 shoes for little Sidney Norwood.

Joe Lynch endows Ralph Tapscott with his amazing ability to answer questions in history.

Marion Snow bequeaths her love of Auburn and of the Pi K A's to Barbara Houser.

B. W. McNair refuses to will anything, but he will auction his "Hamlet" test paper off to the highest bidder.

Joel Gochenour tosses his crew cut up to Tommy Noe.

Wilma Dean Mayton will gladly give her beloved (?) bottom locker to Odessa Flowers.

Gordy Germany, Robert Baker, and Hubert Cates will their long-standing friendship to Axel Bolvig and Billy Ward.

Aleck Gulas bestows his beautiful R. O. T. C. saber (with the dull edge) on Tommy Parks.

"Impy" Shook hands down her ability to knit in class without being caught to Suzanne Beall.

Now the whistle has blown, ending the game. May those upon whom these gifts have been bestowed win through to be All-Americans.

—Margaret Bayless.

When Moon and Stars Shine Again

While the moon duskily casts her glow
On the troubled scene below,
A lustrous star gleams on high—
Black velvet and gold star in the sky.

Beauty, magic, in poignant delight,
Comes to star-dusted, moon-lighted night.
Can there be a free man on land or sea
Who does not believe the star's augury?

Then suddenly I turn in wild dismay,
Fearing disaster from gold-streaming ray;
A well-lighted dome means bombs from the sky,
A night in a tunnel—and a low-wailing cry.

When planes with venom their fires spit,
And on moon-hallowed cottage make perilous hit,
The craze-driven pilot laughs with glee
At the fiendish sights the morrow will see.

As frenzy and terror hold pitiless reign,
Thousands mourn the wounded and slain—
A well-lighted night—no horror worse
Than beauty disfigured and made a curse.

But I know firmly and feel full deep
That free men can halt destruction's sweep
By each exerting the free man's right
To wage a strong, victorious fight—

And win so surely that each future year
Will hold wide peace without tremor or fear;
Then moon and gold star with radiant light
Will again bring beauty to the night.

Helen Cox.

The Final Score

The crowd roars; the game has been won; everyone is happy. The band plays on and each member of our team wears a triumphant air. We have spent four years (more or less) conquering a fierce and fighting foe, studies, but we have won the laurels of victory, our diplomas. We have all found some particularly tough opponents on the opposing team. Perhaps math or science threatened not to let us break through for a touchdown, or then again history, Latin, English, or some other subject kept some of us from kicking that extra point, but now we reap the fruits of a vanquisher; we are graduating.

Yes, this is how we now feel, but what of the future? Is the game over and won, or is this merely a step in the rough and hard-fought game of Life? Some will continue in the field of education, striving in college to prepare themselves for a future in teaching, law, medicine, business administration, engineering or in the various other courses. This is not their final score! Some will enter the business field immediately as clerks, stenographers, typists, and at other jobs; new tasks and challenges will face these. This is not their final score! The armed forces also await some members of our team. There will be adaptation to different physical and mental situations by these, and each will have much to learn in the military manner. This is not their final score! Others will enter industrial plants and take various other jobs; they will have to learn much of their new surroundings and tasks. This is not their final score!

No, none of us has reached his goal. Though we have won a pennant in the minor league, there is a major league left to challenge us. We realize that although the going may be tough, we will have something to keep up our morale which will never leave us—the Phillipian Spirit. Our background will lead us to defend, in the manner we are best fitted, the heritage and name of Phillips High School.

—Carney Dobbs.

CHEERING SECTION

All eyes have been centered on the great team performing on the field, but now we call your attention to the cheering section, the "team behind the team."

Sportscast

Ladies and gentlemen, it has been a great game! Excitement, spectacular plays, and two thousand seven hundred students cheering this great team on to victory. We have had a wonderful season, each quarter thrill-packed. Every compliment that could be bestowed is being given to this undefeated, untied, and unscored-upon team. These students have done their best in this their last era of football glory. This final victory completes the four year record of these unconquered players. Each hat is off and a cheer is sent up for every member of this team.

While we have a few minutes left on the air, I should like to give you some great predictions for these All-American players.

First of all I salute the boys who are to go into the armed forces. I see Admiral John Nelson Hassell of the Navy, Lieutenant Colonel Gordy Germany, and Colonel William Sloan of the Army Air Force enjoying a vacation on the Phillipine Islands. Major Joel Gochenour of the Signal Corps is stationed in the South Sea Islands. Bill Wall and Tom Whitley, engineers from Auburn, are building a canal across Mexico. Their physicians on the expedition are Dr. Homer Russell and Dr. Robert Joseph Linn, both of whom studied at the Mayo Clinic.

Marion Ponder, noted dietitian of Chicago, is being honored at a national conference.

Girod Cole is a famous and revered minister.

Madeline Ward, executive of the Birmingham Stock Exchange, is touring the post-war world with her business friends, Barbara Maxson and Elizabeth Hedgecoth.

Dorothy Tyrrell is first vice-president in charge of production at the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, having begun as a welder there during the war. Helen Cox is her invaluable assistant.

News editor of the Chicago Tribune, Carney Hoyt Dobbs, gave "Impy" Shook her start in the movies where she is now a famous star, also appearing on television.

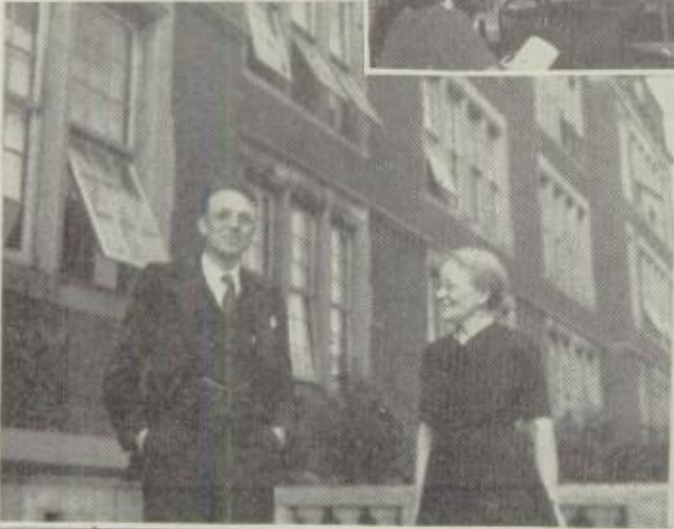

Margaret Bayless, society editor of the New York Times, continues Lula Lovelorn's advice to a nation-wide public.

Kyle Elliott and Malcolm Tanner are top flight radio announcers, being chosen invariably for all the big games.

Thus I forecast for the members of this winning team an illustrious future in other "big games". Of course, I have had time to give you only a few of the predictions sports writers have made for them. So, until next year, when football again rears its head, I bid goodbye and goodluck to the All-American, bowl-bound, Phillips High School "winning team" of January, 1943.

Your Sportscaster,
"Toady" Smith.

When You're "On Your Own"

Many of you in this graduating class will soon be working, earning, and making your own place in this community . . . not as "the somebody's" boy or girl, but on your own.

The business establishments from which you buy, and with which you enjoy credit, will be an important part of your back-ground . . . a means of establishing "who you are" in the community.

We invite you to become a Bromberg customer, to be known as one who trades at an establishment with a good name in Alabama for 106 years.
